Q: How does one initiate the "How To Ask" flow in Safari? I have a website with no such links. In Chrome, my default flow to a specific item is, first, to "How To Ask" if I am stuck, and then, eventually, if that fails, click the "Ask Question" button. In Safari, this flow is always, "Ask Question", but the "How To Ask" link works... If I select it. I'm assuming that Safari hasn't yet worked out the "how to do this" feature for itself, but I'm not finding that answer in the Safari docs. Can anyone point me to that answer? A: You need to include a "How to Ask" link and a "Ask Question" button. Q: Does the term "given topology" imply a choice of topology? The given topology is a topology on a set S that we are given. If we don't have any additional information about the topology, are we free to choose it or is it always the τ where τ is the topology on S generated by the base set B ? What about uncountable bases, are we free to choose the topology to be uncountable, or do we have to choose the countable topology τ by convention?
