men hentaiQ: Fluid Packing in Java The question is: Suppose you have a top-level box containing a picture of your mother. Inside the box is a large Lego brick. Now you have to pack the Lego brick so that it will fit in the box and you have to put a message on the box. What is the minimum number of bricks that have to be packed? My attempt at the question: Given two constraints (hierarchy) 1: Each brick can lie on no more than one row. Each row can contain at most one brick of any color. My approach to the problem (leaving out parts to keep it short) i) find a solution that satisfies the first constraint. ii) we will know that the second constraint is false in case this solution satisfies it. iii) There are n possible ways of packing the bricks, we can check all of them. So therefore, this should be the minimum number of bricks. Am I thinking of this problem correctly? A:
