Passing variables to method I'm using VBA in Access 2010 and have a set of different cells that have the same information filled in. I then have a range of other cells that have formulas looking at those same values. All of those cells are connected to a single subform. My question is how can I pass a specific cell in the form to a method that takes two inputs? In my example I've shown the user picking between the three inputs. The fields are opened as dialog boxes as so: Therefore I've got three buttons: Cancel, Ok and Next which use these three prompts. This is then checked using the Application.GetFormula method to open the dialog box. A: You can use the Me.ControlSource property to select the Form-Control that you want to pass to the method. It's a bit involved, but see How to pass controls/forms to a worksheet function? for a proof-of-concept. Q: Why i am getting Array to string conversion Error? I am using CodeIgniter where I need to insert data into database and I am using the following code: $item_data[0] = $this->input->post('item_name'); $item_data[1] = $this->input->post('item_description'); $item_data[2] = $this->input->post('item_price'); $item_data[3] = $this->input->post('item_available'); $this->db->insert('table_name', $item_data); and it showing error as: Array to string conversion. even though I am passing the array as: array(item_name, item_description, item_price, item_available) Can anybody tell me how to fix this error? A: Since you have named item_name, item

Q: Can't find the async exception in .NET Core I'm wondering how to catch async exceptions in .NET Core. I found this approach to catch exceptions in .Net Framework but that's not working.

```
private static string ExecuteAndCheck(int a) { try { a = ExecuteAndCheck(a); } catch (Exception e) { Console.WriteLine(e.ToString()); } return a; } private static int ExecuteAndCheck(int a) { var b = 42; return b; }

Anyone can help me out? A: Since you're not awaiting anything, you don't have anything to catch the exception. What you're doing is not async, it is synchronous. So, if you want to catch an exception, you want to await something. For example, given that:

async Task Foo() { return await ExecuteAndCheck(1234); } private async Task ExecuteAndCheck(int a) { var b = 42; return b; }

You can't catch that exception unless you can await your task. In the above example, you could do this:

private async Task ExecuteAndCheck(int a) { var b = 42; return await ExecuteAndCheck(a); }
