During the last few years I have been diagnosed with acne, especially on my chin, cheeks and forehead. I have been seeing a dermatologist for many years, but my acne is still present. My skin just seem to be so stubborn and the dermatologist are just giving up. One of the doctors said that my skin turn green when it is around one year old. I have been told this could be the reason my acne is persistent for the last few years. I am not sure if it is true or not. my question to you is how to cure my acne. Is my statement true or just a simple myth? By saying that my skin turn green could be the reason behind my persistent acne can I believe and adopt it as a cure? As per your websites: no. This is not a myth. Obesity is a real problem and has been linked with a number of diseases, including diabetes, stroke and heart disease. Obesity has more than 100,000-times the chance of death in the first year of life compared with just 5 times the chance of death for thin children.
