Navigating with the Eyeball One key to manipulating images in Photoshop is knowing where you are in the image. To help you, the tools in Photoshop display a blinking cursor (which looks like the picture of the eye on a camera or video camera), as shown in Figure 6-8. Figure 6-7. When all the tools are on, the panel shows all the tools in alphabetical order, as shown here. Figure 6-8. The blinking cursor shows you the point in the image that you're currently working on. The blinking cursor is useful. If you're in the middle of working on an image, you can use the cursor to scroll up and down in the image or to zoom in and out. If you double-click on the blinking cursor, you zoom in on the image so that you can see a larger area. If you double-click while holding down the Alt (Windows) or Option (Mac) key, you scroll up to display the area above the cursor.

How to Install a Development Environment For this tutorial we'll be using Windows, although the procedure will be the same on most operating systems. In the box on the left, you'll see a list of installation options. Choose the option that best suits your needs. The following installation instructions are for Windows users: Click on the green button to start the installation. A window will pop-up. The first is the site folder, which will store all the files for the site, and the second one is the bin folder, which will store all the Python scripts that we'll use to create our website. Using your preferred text editor open index.html in the site folder. If you get a file not found error, make sure that you are in the correct folder. Open the bin folder. Here we will have two files, the Python script we'll use to enable our Dark Mode and the CSS file. Copy the code in the site folder and paste it in the file. You should see the following: Make sure that the text you type inside the tag is black. This means that your website will use a dark design, not a light one. To install the CSS file, just open it in the browser. Open the index.html file in your text editor and delete the first tag. We will be using the body tag to display our website. You should see the following: Save the file as background_mode.html in the bin folder. Get the CSS 05a79cecff

Bale, Pochettino both could miss Wembley showdown Newcastle top the Championship table on goal difference with leaders Wolves, but Queens Park Rangers lead the table on goal difference with a record 31 points, and both teams play at Wembley on Saturday. The Wembley clash was initially scheduled for Monday, but with another postponement caused by the heavy rain and flooding at the stadium, a penalty shootout is now expected to settle the winner. Fulham had been hoping to make it to the Wembley final to face former side Crystal Palace or one of the other two semi-finalists, but a frustrating 3-0 defeat by Wigan in the fifth round has denied them a Wembley debut. The Cottagers, who lost Ryan Flynn at the weekend, have only won once at Wembley this season, against Ipswich in the third round. Derby scored three unanswered goals as they knocked out Huddersfield Town in the semi-final. But the Rams only ended up fourth in the Championship, while Bristol City leapfrogged three points clear on the final day. Huddersfield and Crystal Palace both earned a place in the Carabao Cup quarter-final by winning away games in the last round, and those two clubs face each other at New Brighton later on Saturday. Palace had been hoping to reach the semi-final after recovering from a 3-0 first-leg defeat at Palace with a 3-2 aggregate triumph over fellow Premier League side West Ham, while Huddersfield overcame a 4-3 deficit to reach their first cup final at the third time of asking. The Leicester City keeper Ben Hamer returns to Vicarage Road for the first time since he was on loan at the club from the Terriers, and the Foxes looked to be on course for a comfortable win in the fourth round. That was until the visitors broke away after 32 minutes and took their first-half lead through a penalty from captain Wes Morgan as he raced onto a cross from Jamie Vardy. But Leicester rallied and were back on level terms after half an hour when Leonardo Ulloa did well to get away from Pawel Wszołek and headed home from close range. However, they could not get it back in front and the fourth official raised his flag to wave play on, the match finishing 1-1 after extra time. Leicester are the first English team to reach the last eight of the FA
